COPADO

People are the Code

US Employee Handbook

United States Edition, April 2022

Welcome to Copado!!!

As a new employee, you are joining the team that has made this company a robust Salesforce ecosystem asset and a respected leader in the Salesforce developer community. We are a multinational company and are committed to open and transparent communication. We wish you success in your new job and we hope that you quickly feel at home.

You will soon learn about the systems we've put in place to make sure you are connected to the rest of the worldwide Copado team. These systems will allow you to efficiently communicate with all Copado team members regardless of where they are based.

At Copado every position is important. We hope you will immediately connect with our core values of Customer Success Comes First, Over Deliver, People are the code and Always build trust. We call them the COPA Values. Your commitment to these values is critical for our mutual success in customer success, research and innovation, and the growth of our business.

Things move fast at Copado. We are constantly evolving and as a result this handbook will too. It's important that you are ready to travel at warp speed as we tackle the organizational, financial, and technical growth that is moving us from a startup to technology juggernaut. Our culture is about solving the big problems that others don't yet recognize. This means that we have to be both leaders and listeners. If you are prepared to work hard and grow as an individual, then this is the journey for you. It will allow you to add an exciting chapter to your storybook.

Our vision is to become THE DevOps platform that is the heart of digital transformation for the enterprise. These are not just words to us. They offer direction and help us prioritize as we strive to be known and admired for our inclusive culture and we consider the complex yet rewarding mission of ensuring business transformation that will improve the lives of the customers we serve. You were hired specifically because we think you possess both the character and competence to make a true difference at Copado. We are glad you have decided to join us on our mission, and we look forward to your contributions as we achieve our goals together.

Thanks for being a member of Copado!!!

Ted Elliott, CEO

A Message from Our Leaders

"Copado has built a reputation of excellence within the Salesforce ecosystem and amongst our customers. This can only be attributed to the hard work of every single one of our employees."

- Philipp Rackwitz, Co-Founder at Copado

"Copado is a special company because we believe that we can impact transformation. We are a global group of achievers who don't settle for ok, we want our customers, colleagues and partners to win. Being part of our journey is accepting that you can have fun, be great and occasionally trip and then get up again. Copado is about being awesome! Thanks for being part of our business."

- Ted Elliott, CEO at Copado

"Copado is about a culture of constant and never ending improvement. We created Copado in the first place because we wanted to be better at our jobs as Salesforce Architects ourselves.

Our employees get to be better everyday as we ride this rocket at an incredible growth pace. Our products get better with our bi-weekly backend releases and the 3 major app releases. Our customers get better at their jobs by adopting modern DevOps processes. Ultimately the Salesforce ecosystem gets better with our Native DevOps Platform offering.

Thanks for choosing Copado as your path for growth, you are in the right place, seat tied and enjoy the ride!"

- Federico Larsen, CTO & Co-Founder

About this Handbook/Disclaimer

You are responsible for reading the handbook, familiarizing yourself with its contents, and adhering to all of Copado's policies and procedures, whether set forth in this handbook or elsewhere.

The policies, procedures and standard practices described in this handbook are not conditions of employment. This manual does not create an express or implied contract between you and Copado located in any locations where this manual is applicable. Where permitted by law, Copado reserves the right to terminate any employee, at any time, with or without notice or procedure, for any reason deemed by Copado to be in our best interests.

The information in this handbook represents guidelines only. Copado reserves the right to modify this handbook, amend or terminate any policies, procedures, or employee benefit programs whether or not described in this handbook at any time, or to require and/or increase contributions toward these benefits programs.

All personnel policies contained herein were adopted by Copado and supersede previous policies. We periodically review personnel policies in part or as a whole to ensure that they continue to reflect current thinking in the field of People Operations Management and are consistent with trends and legislative requirements.

No manager or representative of Copado, other than an approved Copado Senior Leader, is authorized to enter into any employment agreement on behalf of Copado. Any such agreement, if made, shall not be enforceable unless it is a formal written agreement signed both by me and an authorized Copado Senior Leader.

Commitment to Social Responsibility

Copado and its employees have a responsibility toward our business and natural environments. Our success depends on excelling in a world filled with opportunity. It is also a world where we must do our part to contribute to the synergy of collective social responsibility in order to give back to the world just as it gives to us.

To that end, Copado is a responsible business that is committed to meeting the highest standards of ethics, professionalism and environmental awareness. Our commitment has two components: conduct and proactiveness.

Conduct refers to Copado's commitment to observing community values and conducting business with integrity and respect. Examples include but are not limited to:

- Respecting the law
- Honoring our internal policies
- Ensuring that all of our business operations are legitimate
- Keeping every partnership and collaboration open and transparent
- Showing respect toward the consumer
- Focusing on the health and safety of our employees and community.
- Supporting diversity and inclusion.
- Ensuring we are an equal opportunity employer

Proactiveness refers to our interest in supporting the open and generous sharing of the skills and talents of our employees with communities in need. Copado encourages you to become involved in your community, volunteering your time and talents to improve the world around you.

Examples of this include but are not limited to:

- Advancing the arts, education
- Participating in community events.
- Becoming involved in programs that help those in need.
- Recycling
- Conserving energy

Should your interest in volunteering require time away from your regular work day, please discuss the need with your manager before making any commitments. Alternatives may need to be discussed depending on the nature of your work and the work schedules of those with whom you work.

Copado Mission Statement

Make Release days obsolete.

Our Core Values

Our Core Values are essential to our success as a company. They are the foundation of all that we do and we are expected to live these values every day.

C Customer Success Comes First

We are committed to customer success and endeavor to make our customers and partners wildly successful. We enable our customers to capture all the benefits of their cloud transformations.

O Over Deliver

We are passionate about becoming the unrivaled industry leader by achieving superior results for our customers, our partners, our people, our shareholders and our communities. We constantly deliver innovative solutions that give our customers a competitive advantage.

P People are the Code

Our success depends on our empowered, diverse and high performing team. We enjoy working together, collaborate openly and treat each other with fairness and respect. We have the highest standards in hiring and want to work only with the best people who also share our values.

A Always Build Trust

Nothing is more important to our company than keeping our promises, doing business the right way, and protecting the privacy of our customers' data. The continued success of Copado depends on maintaining our culture and adhering to our values. You were selected to become a Copado employee because we feel you understand and agree that working according to these values is critical to our success. As a result, we expect you, as a valued Copado team member, to continuously embrace, support, and conduct yourself according to these values.

Our Code of Conduct

If you are new to Copado and reading this for the first time, Welcome to our family!

For employees who have been with us and are reading this as a refresher or to find answers to your questions, thanks for your past and continued service. Because of you, we are the great company that we are. Below are some things we need to be sure you understand about working for Copado. Below are the building blocks of our Code of Conduct and adherence to them is a non-negotiable condition of employment at Copado.. Many are common sense and should be followed in all companies but they are of particular importance to us and need to be stated here so they are clear and that you understand that they are non negotiable conditions of employment:

1. Copado requires all employees to put compliance and ethics first.
2. Copado has an unwavering commitment to the success of our customers.
3. Our focus on customer success allows us to shape the new world of Release Management and Deployment software and be the world's leading DevOps company.
4. Our commitments to customer success, philanthropy and sustainability go hand-in-hand with our culture of trust, transparency, personal integrity, respect and open communication.

We expect you to make a personal commitment to follow our Code of Conduct.

If you are ever unsure or feel that the Code of Conduct is being violated, we ask you to speak up. Talk to your manager or contact someone in People Operations. We enforce a non- retaliation policy that means that you don't need to be afraid of asking questions or reporting potential issues.

It is always important to do the right thing. Referring to this Code and following company policies, applicable laws, rules and regulations at all times will help enable you to make the right choices. Every person can make a big difference, so it is vital that all employees act with integrity and in accordance with local laws. That is why this Code applies to everyone at Copado. Above all, this Code helps employees maintain the trust Copado has built with its customers, employees, and others who have a stake in Copado's success.

Conflict of Interest and Business Ethics

It is Copado's policy that employees avoid conflict between their personal interests and Copado. The purpose of this policy is to ensure that Copado's honesty, integrity, and reputation are not compromised.

The fundamental guiding principle of this policy is that no employee should have, or appear to have, personal interests or relationships that actually or potentially conflict with the best interests of the Copado. It is not possible to give an exhaustive list of situations that might involve violations of this policy. Examples of situations that apply to both you or an immediate family member that would constitute a conflict may include but are not limited to:

- holding an interest in or accepting free or discounted goods from any organization that does, or is seeking to do, business with Copado, by any employee who is in a position to directly or indirectly influence either the Copado's decision to do business, or the terms upon which business would be done with such organization

- holding any interest in an organization that competes with Copado
- being employed by (including as a consultant) or serving on the board of any organization which does, or is seeking to do, business with the Copado or which competes with the Copado; and/or profiting personally, e.g., through commissions, loans, expense reimbursements or other payments, from any organization seeking to do business with Copado

This policy is not intended to prohibit the acceptance of modest courtesies, openly given and accepted as part of the usual business amenities, for example occasional business-related meals or promotional items of nominal or minor value. If you have any questions about a particular item or gesture, please discuss it with your manager before accepting the item/gesture.

It is your responsibility to report any actual or potential conflict that may exist between you/your immediate family and Copado through your manager.

People Security Controls

The purpose of Copado people security controls is to ensure that Copado's information assets are protected from the adverse actions of employees, contractors, and others with Copado systems' access. Information systems face threats from many sources, including the actions of people—Copado's employees, external users, and contractors. The intentional and unintentional actions of these individuals can potentially harm or disrupt information systems and their facilities or result in unauthorized access to confidential data. These actions can also result in the destruction or modification of the data being processed, denial of service to the end users, and unauthorized disclosure of confidential data, potentially adversely impacting the quality and continuity of Copado's business operations. All those affiliated with Copado are expected to comply with current policies and procedures addressing People Security.

Recruitment and Selection

We select employees based on their individual merits and abilities irrespective of gender, sexual orientation, gender reassignment, marital status, race, nationality, color, ethnic background, religion, belief, age or disability and in line with our equal opportunities and diversity policy. Our methods of recruitment and selection are designed to treat candidates courteously, fairly and with dignity and respect.

Personal Employee Information

The personal information provided to Copado must be protected. If your job enables you to have access to personal information regarding other employees, then you are responsible for protecting it. Information may only be used for legitimate business purposes, and not sharing it with anyone who does not have a work-related reason to see it. You must take necessary steps to prevent others from inadvertently seeing employee information whether it be on your desk, on your computer screen, in a shared computer drive, etc.

Security

The security of any Copado location and property is the shared responsibility of all employees. Whether working remotely or in an office setting, protecting Copado property is every employee's responsibility. No one should be granted access to Copado property without a validated credential.

Competing Fairly

You are expected to follow competition laws throughout the world, which ensure a level playing field for all businesses.

An informal understanding between you and a competitor, or even a conversation that implies an understanding may be a problem. If any of these topics come up while you are talking with a competitor, stop the conversation immediately and report it.

Fair Dealing

Copado is committed to being honest and truthful with all of its customers, vendors, and other business partners.

It is expected that you never misrepresent the quality, features, or availability of the Copado's products, and never do anything illegal or unethical to win business. It is unethical and possibly illegal to try to obtain information by lying or pretending to be someone you are not.

You are expected to always behave in a professional, ethical, and legal manner and only obtain information through proper channels. Should you ever receive another company's confidential or proprietary information by mistake you must report it to your manager immediately so that it may be returned or destroyed.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Copado is an Equal Opportunity Employer. We do not discriminate on the basis of actual or perceived race, creed, color, religion, alienage or national origin, ancestry, citizenship status, age, disability or handicap, sex, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation, genetic information, arrest record, or any other characteristic protected by applicable city, local, region, city, local, region, state, national or federal laws, regulations, and guidelines.

Our management team is dedicated to this policy with respect to recruitment, hiring, placement, promotion, transfer, training, compensation, benefits, employee activities and general treatment during employment. You are expected to embrace this practice in all of your internal and external business dealings.

Copado will work with any employee to make a reasonable accommodation to known physical or mental limitations of qualified employees with disabilities unless the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the operation of our business. If you need assistance to perform your job duties because of a physical or mental condition, please let your Manager know.

Copado will work with employees to accommodate their sincere religious beliefs to the extent such accommodation does not pose an undue hardship on the Copado's operations. If you wish to request such an accommodation, contact your Manager.

If you have questions or concerns about equal employment opportunities in the workplace, you are encouraged to bring these issues to the attention of your Manager. Copado will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who raise issues of equal employment opportunity.

If you feel you have been subjected to any such retaliation, you should contact your Manager, the Director of People Operations or the SVP of People Operations. To ensure our workplace is free of violations of this policy, we reserve the right to hold others accountable through appropriate disciplinary action up to and including discharge. To help us ensure proper enforcement of this policy, all employees must cooperate with all investigations.

Onboarding

Our aim is to support and guide you in your role so you feel confident to undertake the responsibilities placed upon you and ultimately are able to contribute to Copado's success.

Your onboarding process will begin as soon as you accept our offer of employment and extend over your first few months in your job. The content and duration of your onboarding will be dependent on the scope and complexity of your job, and your manager will outline this in detail with you on your first day of employment. A copy of your onboarding checklist will be shared and discussed with you by your manager on your first day with us.

Specific areas that may be included in your onboarding are as follows:

- Our mission, vision and purpose
- History and culture
- Alignment, recognition and performance management systems
- How we communicate
- The way we work
- Product and business objectives
- Role based onboarding and training

Employee Classifications

Full Time Employee
Employees who are regularly scheduled to work a minimum of 30 hours per week/60 hours per pay period

Part Time Employee
Employees who are employed in a position budgeted for fewer than 30 hours a work week (fewer than 60 hours per pay period).

Temporary Employee
Employees who are hired for fixed periods of time, usually to complete a defined project or fill in for vacant positions.

Intern
An individual who affiliates with Copado for a finite period of time, generally less than 6 months for the purpose of gaining knowledge and experience in his/her chosen field of study. Internships can be paid or unpaid. If unpaid, the internship must be officially affiliated with an accredited college or university degree program and be an official part of the Intern's degree attainment. Interns must work no more than 30 hours per week and are not eligible for benefits.

Exempt Employee
Employees who are defined under the Fair Labor Standards Act as professional, executive or administrative and are approved by People Operations to be exempt from the Act's overtime provisions.

Non-Exempt Employee
Employees who are defined under the Fair Labor Standards Act as being subject to the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Introductory Period

We understand that it takes time to adjust to any new job. Getting used to how we operate and vice versa will likely take several months. As a result, your first 90 days will be considered an “introductory period” in which we will spend time discussing your progress with you and providing time for you to ask questions about Copado.

We hired you because we saw something in you that tells us that you can be successful at Copado. Because of that, we will take all reasonable steps to ensure you have the tools and resources to be successful. However, during this time, if we feel the role you were hired into is not a good fit for you, we may separate you from Copado employment without taking the steps outlined in our progressive discipline policy. This exemption from the discipline policy allows both you and Copado to remain nimble in our need to make sure all employees are performing to expectations.

Employee Notice period

Copado invests heavily in its employees’ success. Therefore, we want to give each employee every opportunity to be successful. However, should business or other circumstances within or outside our control warrant us to separate employment with you we will endeavor to provide as much notice as possible. This notice will be at the discretion of senior leadership.

Background Checks

US applicants and employees will be subjected to a background check. If there is a delay in receiving a response to the record check for an applicant, your offer and continued employment may be contingent upon the record check results being acceptable to Copado. If there is an emergent need to allow employment to begin before full results are received, this must be approved by the Director of People Operations prior to the employee starting work.

Romantic and family relationships at work

Employment decisions are based upon job requirements. Individuals related to or romantically involved with another employee will not be given preference over other job applicants.

An employee may not be placed in a position where he/she will supervise or be supervised by a relative or another employee in which a romantic relationship exists. The senior leader responsible for the department must approve relatives or individuals involved in a romantic relationship working in the same department. Prior to such approval, there must be clear understanding among all parties that if problems begin, either as a result of work related or non-work related issues, the senior leader reserves the right to require one of the parties leave the department (resign or transfer) and also reserves the right to establish the time frame in which the change must occur. Should this deadline be missed, the senior leader, working with People Operations, may decide which employee shall leave and when.

Copado discourages the employment of relatives where potential conflicts of interest, misuse of confidential information, or opportunities for collusion exist. If a conflict arises, management will make the necessary adjustments to correct the conflict.

Open Door Policy

Copado is committed to open and honest two-way employee communication. We may have offices on several continents and multiple cities within the United States in addition to many remote workers so it is very possible that your direct manager/manager will not be located in the same office/city/country you are. This requires that our open-door policy be a “virtual” open door policy with the same commitment to transparent communication that we would have if we were all in the same location. To facilitate that, we take advantage of several virtual communication tools to allow all employees to communicate their needs and thoughts openly and without fear of retaliation. The mechanisms currently in place were described and demonstrated to you during your onboarding. It is your responsibility to learn how to effectively use these communication tools and use them regularly.

Travel

Since Copado is an international company with employees on several continents, there is a legitimate business need for employees to travel. Because this need can be expensive if not managed properly, we have a detailed travel policy. It is available for you to read in the Copado People Community. It is your responsibility to read, understand, and follow the travel policy. Exceptions to the travel policy may only be granted in advance by the CEO. Extraordinary expenses (those not covered by the travel policy) incurred and not approved in advance shall be your responsibility. Any abuse or misrepresentations of your expenses while traveling may result in disciplinary action up to and including discharge.

During Your Employment at Copado

Payroll Information

US employees are paid twice a month: on the 15th and the last day of the month via direct deposit credit transfer to your designated bank account. If a check date falls on a weekend day or holiday, you will be paid the previous business day.

During your onboarding process, you were informed how to access your online payroll account and how to set up your direct deposit. This account is also where you will find your advice of deposit along with your W- 2 and other tax forms when they are available.

Questions about pay should be directed to People Operations. Keep in mind that your pay information should be kept private.

Salary/PTO Advances

Copado does not provide salary/pay advances or paid time off against future PTO accrual.

Job Postings

Copado is dedicated to assisting you in managing your career and reaching your professional goals through promotion and transfer opportunities. If you're interested in being promoted and/or transferred, please let your manager know. Keep in mind that you generally need to be in your job at least 1 year after hire in order to be eligible for a promotion and/or transfer.
Exceptions may be granted by senior leadership in certain instances.

If you find a position of interest to you on our online job-posting board and you meet the minimum requirements, an on-line application must be completed in order to be considered for the position. Not all positions are guaranteed to be posted. Copado reserves the right to seek applicants solely from outside sources or to post positions internally and externally simultaneously.

Bonus Payments

We may, depending on Copado's performance and your overall performance, pay you a discretionary bonus. The payment of a bonus will be solely at the discretion of the Senior leadership. There is no contractual entitlement for you to receive a bonus at any time even if one has been paid to you or others on previous occasions. When a bonus is paid, the amount and timing will be wholly at the discretion of senior leadership.

Employees who are on approved absence will be considered to be included in approved bonus based on applicable laws and regulations regarding leaves of absence.

Working from Home

We recognize it may be beneficial to both you and Copado for you to work from home. Normal work production is expected in any instance work from home is approved. Stipends and reimbursement for home office equipment, connections, and supplies will be at the discretion of Copado leadership. Check with People Operations for the current policy.

Moving your Residence

While employed with Copado, should you move from one address to another, whether it be a different state, county, city or within the same city, please let us know at least 30 days before you move. There are numerous city, state, school and other taxes as well as other registration implications (for both you and Copado) when a person moves, so we want to be sure we are able to notify the proper authorities and ensure your taxes are paid on time and appropriately. You might realize a tax penalty from a taxing authority should you fail to notify us timely and your tax rate change without us being aware.

Hours of Work

The normal hours of work are 40 hours per week unless specific country laws define a work week differently. However, because Copado is an international company with staff located in many different time zones and countries, you are expected to remain flexible and adaptable to varying hours and days of work in order to accommodate the business needs of the various international staff and customers.

Trust

Copado entrusts its employees with a wide range of technology and other tools that make it possible to do their jobs effectively. These tools must be used wisely.

All computers and other devices that Copado provides you are considered company property. You are expected to take all necessary steps to keep them in proper working order as well as abide by all current acceptable use policies of both company equipment as well as personal equipment you may use for company business.

When using Copado's technology (hardware or software), you should not have any expectation of privacy in their use. Copado may monitor anything created, stored, sent, or received on company technology to the extent allowed by law.

It is also important to carefully avoid any usage that might lead to loss or damage, such as a breach of Copado's IT security protocols. If it is determined that equipment that is assigned to you was damaged as a result of your negligence or failure to provide proper care or that technology available to you was used inappropriately in any manner, you could be subject to disciplinary action up to and including discharge.

Rehiring

Generally, when you leave Copado, whether it be voluntarily or involuntarily, you will not be considered for rehire. However, situations occur where it is in the best interest of Copado to consider a former employee for rehire. For that to be an option for Copado to consider, you must:

- Have resigned from your earlier employment with timely notice in compliance with policy
- Have received performance evaluations showing satisfactory performance in terms of job performance, attendance, and similar measuring factors. If you resigned prior to receiving an evaluation, you must have successfully completed your introductory period and have no disciplinary or similar record in your employment file
- Receive a favorable report from any background check that may be performed
- Provide, in writing, an acceptable reason for leaving and also for wanting to return

Successfully meeting all the above criteria only allows you to be considered for reemployment. Nothing in this policy should be construed as a guarantee of reemployment.

If you are rehired within 180 days of your termination date, you will be deemed hired on the original hire date with no break in service for purposes of determining eligibility for employee benefits.

- If you are rehired for the same position or a comparable position to the one formerly held, your compensation will be unchanged from your compensation on your termination date. Leaving Copado for more money and then expecting to return for a higher pay rate may disqualify you from consideration for reemployment. If you are hired into a different job for which the pay level is greater or less than that of your former position, your compensation will be commensurate with the pay range for that position.
- Medical insurance and other benefits, e.g. participation in the 401k or pension plan as applicable, etc., will be restored as soon as is practicable based on current legislation, the terms of the plans and the rehire date.
- You will accrue paid time off at the same rate as you accrued such leave prior to the termination date.

If you are rehired more than 180 days after termination you will be treated as a new hire with regard to compensation, leave, benefits eligibility and all other terms and conditions of employment.

Protecting sensitive company information

Many details about how Copado operates need to be kept confidential in order for Copado to remain competitive and successful. You are responsible for safeguarding all confidential and sensitive Copado data.

Examples include but are not limited to such as business plans or strategies, financial results, product designs and concepts, sales goals and marketing plans, terms and conditions, rates, or fees used to particular customers, and other non-public information that might be of use to competitors.

Third parties

Copado may engage with third parties such as agents, consultants, suppliers, resellers, or distributors only after they have passed a legal due diligence process.

In exchange for establishing a third-party relationship with Copado, these entities are expected to behave and perform to the same expectations as Copado employees. Failure to do so may result in termination of the relationship.

Financial Integrity, Records, and Accounting

Copado's financial, accounting, and legal groups are responsible for establishing and maintaining procedures designed to assure proper internal and disclosure controls and everyone must cooperate with these procedures.

All information must be recorded accurately, whether it is tracking work hours, expenses (including your expense reports), or sales contracts.

Understanding Insider Trading

Investment trading while in possession of material information that is not known to the public is strictly prohibited whether it is information about Copado or another company. Information that is material and not available to the public is called inside information. Information is material if a reasonable investor would consider it important in deciding whether to buy, hold, or sell a company's securities. Common examples of inside information include key changes in management, mergers and acquisitions, other major business plans, and financial results that have not been released outside of Copado. Trading while in possession of inside information is illegal. You cannot give inside information to anyone else. This is known as tipping and is also illegal. Consequences for violations are severe, including jail time.

Handling Imports and Exports

When working with international customers, keep in mind that there may be additional steps required before delivering products or services internationally.

You are responsible for knowing and following the appropriate rules and procedures for imports and exports. If you are involved in international transactions, it is important to know what is expected of Copado including any requirements related to taxes, verification, licensing, and permits. For additional information on handling imports and exports contact your manager.

Company & Personal Property Policy

Intellectual Property

Copado relies on our employees to create and execute innovative and creative solutions for our customers. For Copado to survive in this highly competitive environment, it is important to protect those ideas developed by our Copado team through all legal means, such as copyrights and patents. Collectively, these ideas and solutions are called intellectual property (IP), and it includes all copyrights, patents, trademarks, trade secrets, design rights, logos, and brands.

Keep in mind that Copado owns the rights to all IP created by Copado employees using Copado materials and/or on company time.

Third Parties

In the course of doing business, sometimes you may learn confidential information about customers, suppliers, and other business partners. Taking all reasonable steps to protect the data of these third parties is consistent with one of Copado's strongest highest values.

Former Employers

When a new team member joins Copado Solutions, current Copado employees must respect that this person cannot share confidential information about previous employers. Similarly, you would still be responsible for protecting Copado's information if you left Copado.

Termination of Employment

Unless required by conflicting state law, your employment with Copado is "at will," meaning either you or Copado can terminate the relationship with or without cause at any time. However, in order to ensure you are treated fairly, accountability guidelines are in place for managers to follow should your performance not meet expectations.

Upon termination (voluntary or involuntary), you are required to immediately return any Copado property in your possession, e.g., laptop, mobile phone, keys, printers memory sticks, documents etc. to your manager or People Operations.

Failure to return such property may result in the appropriate deduction being made from your final salary to the extent allowed by law as well as the possibility of being reported to law enforcement for theft of property.

You remain bound by the confidentiality agreements outlined in our values. In certain circumstances, if deemed appropriate and as an alternative to working your notice, we reserve the right either to transfer you to other suitable duties during your notice period, require you to accept payment in lieu of working your notice or accept your notice immediately and waive your notice payment.

Should you be discharged for cause, your employment may be terminated immediately without the benefit of notice or payment in lieu of notice.

Exit Interviews

We strive to conduct exit interviews with anyone leaving Copado. We want to provide you with an opportunity to give us feedback on your employment with us and your reasons for leaving. Exit interviews are normally conducted during your notice period.

Personal information

Part of your onboarding process included the collection of pertinent personal information so that we can manage your employment as needed and remain compliant with applicable laws and regulations pertaining to employment. Should any of your personal information change during the course of your employment with Copado, please inform People Operations immediately. False information on applications or other personal documents may lead to immediate discharge in accordance with the progressive discipline policy.

Performance Reviews

We actively encourage and support your personal development. During your onboarding process, Copado's current performance management process was explained to you. Copado carefully reviews any information provided to you, including your job description, job performance expectations, and performance targets and deadlines, etc. as these will be used in your performance reviews. Performance reviews are conducted on a periodic basis and during this period we will talk to you about your past performance and set your future business and personal objectives.

Training

Continuing Education

We want you to have the skills and knowledge necessary to perform your current role but to also prepare you for growth within Copado. Should you wish to pursue any particular training or pursue additional education, discuss those interests with your manager and contact People Operations for the most current continuing education policy.

Based on your role and Copado's need, we may provide financial assistance and time off for you to attend external training courses. If such a training opportunity arises, you may be asked to complete a work agreement. The agreement will define the level of support to be provided by us and give a work commitment time frame that will begin after the training/education is completed. After the successful completion of the work commitment period, you would not be required to repay the costs of your training. Any terms for repayment will be outlined in your work commitment agreement.

Copado may reimburse up to a fixed amount for training. Be aware that the training purpose must be related to the Copado business and your senior leader must approve it prior to enrolling. In order to be reimbursed, you must successfully complete the training and receive a passing grade and/or certification that indicates you mastered the material.

Required

Because of the nature of Copado's business, there will be some training that is required on a regular basis for all employees. The training includes security awareness topics, along with topics regarding complying with national, state, and local laws along with contract requirements with some of our customers. You will be notified of the training you are required to complete and the time frame within which the training must be completed. Completing this training in the allotted time is required/not optional. Failure to complete all training on a timely basis may result in disciplinary action and or suspension of systems access. Should you be unable to perform your duties as a result of a systems access suspension, you may be suspended without pay until such time the training is completed.

Professional Subscriptions

If you are accredited with a professional body which is relevant to your role, it is your responsibility to ensure it is current and fully paid. If your accreditation is revoked, lapses, is made subject to specific conditions or you fail to renew it, we may end your employment or suspend you from work without pay until the accreditation is reissued or revalidated.

A decision as to appropriate action will be made by us after thorough investigation and consideration of the needs of the business.

Communication

We will share information with you about our clients, products, services and plans for the future etc. We encourage you to share your views, suggestions and opinions.

We ask you to communicate professionally in a way that respects confidentiality and looks after the best interests of your colleagues, clients and competitors. If you communicate in an inappropriate manner, you may be subject to disciplinary action in line with our disciplinary policy.

Confidential Information

Employees should not, either during employment, or thereafter, use to the detriment or prejudice of the Company or any of our clients or, except in the proper course of your duties, divulge to any person, company or employer or otherwise make use of:

- Any confidential information about us, our business accounts, finances, research projects, pricing policy, future business strategy, marketing strategies and plans, client lists, discount rates and sales figures arrangements with suppliers, tenders, pitches, plan or strategies.
- Any other information designated as confidential which may have come to your knowledge in the course of your employment.

This restriction will continue to apply after your employment has ended as documented in your contract of employment.

Search

Subject to you signing the employee privacy notice and us having reasonable cause for concern, we reserve the right to carry out searches at any of our offices.

Any search would be carried out by a Manager or Director and would be performed in the presence of a witness. If you attempt to obstruct such a search, your actions may result in disciplinary action.

Use of Communications & Computer Systems

Copado's communication and computer systems are intended primarily for business purposes. This includes the voice mail, email and Internet systems. Users have no legitimate expectation of privacy in regard to their use of the Copado systems.

Copado may access the voicemail and email systems and obtain the communications within the systems, including past voicemail and email messages, without notice to users of the system, in the ordinary course of business when the Company deems it appropriate to do so. The reasons for which the Company may obtain such access include but are not limited to: maintaining the system; preventing or investigating allegations of system abuse or misuse; assuring compliance with software copyright laws; complying with legal and regulatory requests for information; and ensuring that Company operations continue appropriately during the employee's absence.

Further, Copado may review Internet usage to ensure that such use with Company property, or communications sent via the Internet with Company property, are appropriate. The reasons for which the Company may review employees' use of the Internet with Company property include but are not limited to: maintaining the system; preventing or investigating allegations of system abuse or misuse; assuring compliance with software copyright laws; complying with legal and regulatory requests for information; and ensuring that Company operations continue appropriately during the employee's absence. We may store electronic communications for a period of time after the communication is created. From time to time, copies of communications may be deleted.

Our policies prohibit harassment and they apply to the use of our communication and computer systems. No one may use any communication or computer system in a manner that may be construed by others as harassing or offensive based on race, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability, religious beliefs or any other characteristic protected by city, local, region, city, local, region, state, national or federal laws, regulations, and guidelines.

Further, since Copado's communication and computer systems are intended for business use, all employees, upon request, must inform management of any private access codes or passwords. Unauthorized duplication of copyrighted computer software violates the law and is strictly prohibited. No employee may access, or attempt to obtain access to, another employee's computer systems without appropriate authorization.

Violators of this policy may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including discharge.

Use of Social Media

Copado respects the right of any employee to maintain a blog or web page or to participate in a social network, including but not limited to Twitter, Facebook ,and LinkedIn.

However, to protect Company interests and ensure employees focus on their job duties, employees may not post on a blog or web page or participate on a social networking platform, such as Twitter or similar site, during work time or at any time with Company equipment or property unless expressly approved by your manager.

All rules regarding confidential and proprietary business information apply in full to blogs, web pages and social networking platforms, such as Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn or similar sites. Any information that cannot be disclosed through a conversation, a note or an e-mail also cannot be disclosed in a blog, website or social networking site.

If you mention Copado on an internet platform such as a personal blog, web page, social networking, Twitter, etc., and also express either a political opinion or an opinion regarding our actions that could pose an actual or potential conflict of interest with the Company, you must include a disclaimer that states that the opinion expressed is your personal opinion and not our position. This applies to posting on your own or someone else's blog, web page, social networking, Twitter or similar sites. This is necessary to preserve our good will in the marketplace.

Any conduct that is impermissible under the law if expressed in any other form or forum is impermissible if expressed through a blog, website, social networking, Twitter or similar sites. For example, posted material that is discriminatory, obscene, defamatory, libelous or violent is forbidden. Company policies apply equally to employee social media usage.

Copado encourages all employees to keep in mind the speed and manner in which information posted on internet platforms is received and often misunderstood by readers. Employees must use their best judgment. Employees with any questions should review the guidelines above and/or consult with their manager. Failure to follow these guidelines might result in discipline, up to and including discharge.

Contact with the Media

Copado is proud of the role we play in supporting Salesforce deployments. While most of our time is spent listening to customers and helping them solve their challenges, there may come a time when a media outlet may want to know more about what we do or may have questions about a particular topic that involves Copado. If someone from the media should approach you with a question or a request for an interview, contact your manager before accepting the invitation. You may be the appropriate person to answer the question but we also recognize that you may not be aware of all the things going on at Copado that affects the question, so we want to be sure that we are aware of the request and can help provide an answer that is in keeping with the Copado business.

Speaking Events

If you are invited to speak or present at an event you must notify the Marketing team before accepting. You must have them review and approve any materials you present or discuss before accepting the invitation to speak, free travel or accommodations.

Use of Facilities, Equipment and Property, Including Intellectual Property

Equipment essential in accomplishing job duties is often expensive and may be difficult to replace. When using Copado property, employees are expected to exercise care, perform required maintenance, and follow all operating instructions, safety standards and guidelines.

Employees should notify their manager if any equipment, machines, or tools appear to be damaged, defective or in need of repair. Prompt reporting of loss, damages, defects and the need for repairs could prevent deterioration of equipment and possible injury to employees or others. Managers can answer any questions about the employees' responsibility for maintenance and care of equipment used on the job. Improper, careless, negligent, destructive or unsafe use or operation of equipment can result in discipline up to and including discharge

Employees also are prohibited from any unauthorized use of the Company's intellectual property, such as audio and video tapes, print materials and software.

Further, the Company is not responsible for any damage to employees’ personal belongings unless the employee's manager provided advance approval for the employee to bring the personal property to work.

Absences

We value good attendance at work (whether office based or remote) and are committed to improving the general wellbeing of our employees to achieve this. We do however recognize that absence resulting from sickness or other health conditions is sometimes unavoidable. We monitor absence to ensure those who need time off for health issues are supported.

If it is determined that your absences are considered excessive, your manager may have a discussion with you to align on expectations and offer support when needed.

Notification Procedures

If you are unable to attend or perform your work due to sickness, injury or other physical or mental condition, your manager must be notified in person or by direct communication before your normal start time or as soon thereafter as possible on the first day of absence. If possible, you should indicate a date of return. These notifications must be confirmed by the manager. Leaving a voicemail or unresponded email or text message is not an acceptable form of communication. It is your responsibility to ensure contact is made with your manager.

If you leave or stop work early because you are unwell, you must inform your manager that you are leaving or stopping work prior to leaving. It is our policy to keep in touch with you during all absences, whatever their length.

Unless you are told otherwise, you should notify us using the method above on every day of your absence until such time as your absence is covered by an approved leave of absence, completed by a medical practitioner (after 7 calendar days). If you have been absent due to sickness and are found not to have been or have not followed the notification procedures, you may be subject to disciplinary action.

Unreported absences of two (2) consecutive workdays generally will be considered a voluntary resignation of employment. Generally, an application for leave must be completed for all leave taken under this policy.

A nonemergency leave should generally be requested from Human Resources at least 30 days, or as soon as practical, in advance of the date the leave is expected to begin. In cases of emergency, you (or your representative, if you are incapacitated) should give verbal notice as soon as possible, and the application form should be completed as soon as practical.

To initiate your leave request, please complete and submit it along with the supporting documentation via Leave of Absence Google form.

Failure to provide adequate notice may, in the case of foreseeable leave, result in a delay or denial of leave. It is your responsibility to notify your manager and Human Resources of absences that may be covered by the FMLA. You must provide sufficient information regarding the reason for an absence for the Company to know that protection may exist under this policy. Failure to provide this information will result in delay or forfeiture of rights under this policy. This means the absence may then be counted against your record for purposes of discipline for attendance or similar matters.

Returning to Work after a Period of Sickness Absence

On your return to work or as soon as is reasonably practicable following your return, your manager may meet with you to discuss what work was missed, any makeup work needed to be done and the timeframe for its completion. If you require any accommodations from Copado in order for you to perform the essential functions of your job, inform your manager so People Operations can be informed, and the accommodation request process can begin.

Accommodation requests are not guaranteed and will be considered in a manner that supports your return and does not create an undue hardship on Copado's business operations.

Sick Pay

Unless otherwise stated in your offer letter or contract amendment letter, payment for sick days will be paid in accordance with the current policy for the country in which you live. If part or all of your sick pay is provided by your government, Copado will assist you in securing these payments. If your sick pay during your leave is made up of some governmental payments and some Copado provided benefits, Copado will assist you in managing these payments.

Personal Appointments

You are expected to arrange personal appointments outside working hours wherever possible. We accept it may be difficult to arrange certain appointments on your own time and therefore will work with you to accommodate your needs. We also want to be sure you are taking care of yourself and proactively participating in your own health by scheduling and attending well medical and dental checks. To help encourage you in this activity, employees may use 1 sick day per year to cover time off for well medical and dental checks. This time can be taken in ½ day increments. For personal appointments other than medical or dental well checks, requests for time off are not guaranteed to be approved and you should communicate your request as far in advance as possible. PTO should be used to cover time off for non medical personal appointments.

Parental Leave

Copado offers a generous parental leave policy. This policy is intended to offer parental leave benefits in countries (U.S., etc) that don't have a federally mandated leave program. In countries where a federal parental leave program exists, employees living in those countries will receive the benefit that is more generous between the federal mandate and this policy. Only one leave plan may be used per birth, adoption, or foster placement.

Copado will provide up to 12 weeks of paid parental leave to employees following the birth of an employee's child or the legal placement of a child with an employee in connection with adoption or foster care. The purpose of paid parental leave is to enable the employee to care for and bond with a newborn or a newly adopted or newly placed child. In the U.S., this policy will run concurrently with Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) leave, as applicable. This policy will be in effect for births, adoptions or placements of foster children.

For details on this policy, review the Parental Leave Policy located in the People Hub.

Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA)

Copado fully complies with all rules and regulations regarding the Family and Medical Leave Act. If you anticipate or need time off to take care of a medical issue, immediately contact HR for guidance on the process that needs to be followed to protect your interests.

To be eligible for FMLA leave, you must meet the following criteria:

- have worked for Copado for at least 12 months; and
- have worked for Copado for at least 1,250 hours in the 12 months before you are taking leave

Eligible employees may take up to 12 work weeks of leave (paid or unpaid) in a 12-month period for one or more of the following reasons:

- the birth of a child and to care for the newborn child within one year of birth
- the placement with you of a child for adoption or foster care and to care for the newly placed child within one year of placement
- to care for your spouse, child, or parent who has a serious health condition
- a serious health condition that makes you unable to perform the essential functions of your job
- any qualifying exigency arising out of the fact that your spouse, son, daughter, or parent is a covered military member on "covered active duty;" or
- Twenty-six work weeks of leave during a single 12-month period to care for a covered service member with a serious injury or illness if the eligible employee is the service member's spouse, son, daughter, parent, or next of kin (military caregiver leave).

For more detailed information on FMLA, please refer to the Department of Labor guide.

For more detailed information per state and municipality, please click here.

Benefit Continuation During Leave

Copado will maintain your group health plan coverage and certain other employment benefits (such as group life insurance, AD&D insurance, and health and dependent flexible spending accounts) during your FMLA leave on the same terms as if you had continued to work, if these benefits were provided to you before the leave was taken. You will be required to pay your regular portion of premiums. Contact Human Resources for an explanation of your options. Benefits that are accumulated based upon hours worked will not accumulate during the period of FMLA leave, with the exception of Copado paid parental leave where there is an active payroll.

In some instances, Copado may recover premiums it paid to maintain health plan coverage for an employee who fails to return to work from FMLA leave.

Short-Term Disability

Short-term disability is a condition that renders an employee incapable of performing the required duties of their occupation due to a non-occupational injury or illness and runs concurrently with FMLA (if eligible). Eligibility Requirements:

- Full-time employees are covered effective their date of hire

Short-term disability insurance covers up to 60% of your salary up to 12 weeks and has a 7-calendar day waiting period beginning from the first day of the absence for which you can use sick days and accrued PTO from their PTO bank to cover. If you don't have any sick days or available PTO left, then the waiting period will be unpaid.

Certification process—The need for leave must be documented by your treating health care provider through our medical certification process.

In order to receive short-term disability benefits, it is the employee's responsibility to apply directly with Guardian (you can find the steps on how to apply here). For more information, please refer to the Guardian summary of benefits. If you reside in California, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island or Hawaii, you can apply for temporary disability benefits directly through the state.

Fitness-for-duty statement—A fitness-for-duty statement will be required in order for you to return from a medical leave. Failure to provide the statement will result in a delay in your return to work.

Military Leave

Employees who are in the Armed Forces of the United States and called up for active duty or training obligations will be granted leaves of absence in accordance with the provisions of the Universal Military Training and Service Act, USERRA, and other applicable laws.

A request for leave must be completed and turned in to your direct manager prior to beginning the leave. You are also required to submit a copy of your or a letter from your commanding officer stating your orders, the expected length of the training or call to active duty, and the date you are required to report.

If you follow USERRA reporting guidelines upon release from active duty you will be returned to your former position. You are required to produce documentation of the date of release from active duty to HR as soon as you are reasonably able to do so, but prior to your reinstatement into your former position.

The next of kin of National Guard and Reserve service members may also be granted leaves of absence.

Jury and Witness duty

Copado recognizes your obligation to fulfill your civic responsibility to serve if summoned for jury duty. Jury duty pay is designed to prevent you from sustaining a loss in pay while serving on jury duty. You will be compensated at your base rate of pay for all regularly scheduled time not worked due to jury duty. A receipt of the payment you received for serving must be turned into HR as soon as it is received.

You are expected to contact your manager if excused from jury/witness duty in time to report for at least a half day of work. If you are notified at least one day in advance that you will be excused from jury duty, you will be expected to work as scheduled.

You should notify your manager as soon as a jury duty summons is received.

Time off to Vote

Copado fully supports your obligation to participate in the democratic process of voting in all elections that affect you. Most polls are open for at least 12 hours on election day and most communities offer early voting to allow citizens to participate in the voting process at their convenience. As a result, Copado doesn't generally allow time away from work on election day to allow you to vote since there are so many other options available to you to vote outside of work hours. However, should you encounter an unusual situation where voting during work time is your only option, discuss your situation with your manager before taking the time off. Approval for the time off is not guaranteed but will be considered.

Bereavement Leave

You are immediately eligible for bereavement pay. You will be paid for any regularly scheduled time not worked due to the death of an immediate family member. You will be granted up to 3 consecutive work days (not to exceed 24 work hours).

Immediate family is defined as: husband, wife, father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, grandparents, grandchildren, step-parents, stepchildren, as well as the spouse's parents, siblings, and grandchildren.

Bereavement time must be taken within a reasonable period of time following the death of the covered family member. It is understood that additional time may be needed to deal with the loss of a loved one. Additional time off may be granted upon request and will be paid from your accrued PTO bank.

Use of Alcohol and Drugs

You must not be impaired for any reason when working or representing Copado. The legality of possessing a medication or treatment does not transfer to it being acceptable to be impaired from that medication or treatment while working.

We will take all reasonable steps to prevent employees from carrying out work-related activities if they are considered to be impaired. If you are suspected of being impaired, we may send you home or suspend your work effort. This behavior may be viewed as gross misconduct and dealt with under our disciplinary procedure, which could result in dismissal without notice.

Bullying and Harassment Policy

Bullying and harassment are unacceptable behaviors which we will not tolerate. You have the right to be treated with dignity and respect while working for us.

It is everyone's responsibility to comply with this policy and of those with a managerial role to ensure it is followed, with a view to maintaining a working environment in which bullying and harassment are understood by all to be unacceptable. We will not tolerate retaliation towards anyone involved in the bringing of a complaint under this procedure. If you breach this policy appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including discharge, may occur.

Should you feel at any time that you are being subjected to either bullying or harassment of any kind, report this immediately to your manager or People Operations. An investigation will be conducted in order to alleviate the situation.

False accusations of bullying or harassment can have a serious effect on innocent individuals. Should investigation show a false accusation has been made knowingly or in bad faith, appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including discharge, may be taken against the complainant and/or any purported witnesses.

Workplace Violence

All potentially dangerous situations, including threats by co-workers, should be reported immediately to your manager or People Operations. Reports of threats may be kept confidential to the extent that maintaining confidentiality does not impede Copado's ability to investigate and respond to the complaints. All threats will be promptly investigated. All employees must cooperate with all investigations. No employee will be subjected to retaliation, intimidation or disciplinary action as a result of reporting a threat in good faith under this policy. If Copado determines, after an appropriate good faith investigation, that someone has violated this policy, we will take swift and appropriate corrective action.

If the employee is the recipient of a threat made by an outside party, that employee should follow the steps detailed in this section. It is important for Copado to be aware of any potential danger in its offices. Indeed, Copado wants to take effective measures to protect everyone from the threat of a violent act by employees or by anyone else.Any complaints will be investigated promptly, impartially and, so far as practicable, confidentially.

Where you and the alleged perpetrator work with or in proximity to each other it may be necessary to suspend one or both of you on full pay or ask either of you to work from a different location while the complaint is being investigated and during any subsequent disciplinary proceedings.

Threats, threatening language or any other acts of aggression or violence made toward or by any Copado employee WILL NOT BE TOLERATED. For purposes of this policy, a threat includes any verbal or physical harassment or abuse, any attempt at intimidating or instilling fear in others, menacing gestures, flashing of weapons, stalking or any other hostile, aggressive, injurious or destructive action undertaken for the purpose of domination or intimidation. To the extent permitted by law, employees and visitors are prohibited from carrying weapons on Copado premises.

Weather and Emergency Closings

With offices located in many parts of the globe, office closings due to weather or other emergency situations will be managed at the local level. If you regularly work in a Copado office location, it is your responsibility to know what your office's inclement and emergency closing policy is and follow it when invoked.

Inclement weather will not be an acceptable excuse to prevent remote work from home unless the weather affects remote connectivity.

Benefits at Copado

In addition to good working conditions and competitive pay, it is Copado's policy to provide a combination of supplemental benefits to all eligible employees. Your localized benefits will apply.

In keeping with this goal, each benefit program has been carefully designed to align with city, local, region, city, local, regional, state, national or federal laws, regulations, and guidelines.

These benefits include time-off benefits, such as vacations and holidays, and insurance and other plan benefits. We are constantly studying and evaluating our benefits programs and policies to better meet present and future requirements.

While the Company intends to maintain these employee benefits, it reserves the right to modify, amend or terminate these benefits at any time and for any reason.

If you have any questions regarding benefits, contact People Operations.

Benefit Enrollment, Changes, and Descriptions

During your onboarding process, you were educated regarding the current benefits and enrollment/change process. The portal to the current enrollment process if available on the Copado People Community. Should you have any questions regarding the process or benefits themselves, contact HR.

Paid Holidays

Full-time US employees will be paid for the following holidays:

- New Year's Day
- Martin Luther King Day
- Memorial Day
- Independence Day
- Labor Day
- Copado (Columbus) Day
- Veteran's Day
- Thanksgiving Day
- Day after Thanksgiving
- Christmas Day
- Employee's birthday

When holidays fall or are celebrated on a regular work day, eligible employees will receive one (1) day's pay. Eligible employees who are called in to work on a holiday will be allowed to take a day off with pay within 14 days of that holiday. These days may not be banked or saved up to extend vacation. If a date-based holiday (New Years Day, July 4th, etc) falls on a Saturday or Sunday, the work day closest to that date (Friday or Monday) will be the holiday for pay purposes. If a holiday falls within an eligible employee's approved vacation period, the eligible employee will receive holiday pay rather than having to use a vacation day.

In keeping with our commitment to Social Responsibility, we encourage all employees to use Copado Day to support philanthropic activities and causes within their communities that match their interests.

Parental Leave

Copado offers a generous parental leave policy. Copado will provide up to 12 weeks of paid parental leave to employees following the birth of an employee’s child or the legal placement of a child with an employee in connection with adoption or foster care.

For details on this policy, review the Parental Leave Policy located in the People Community.

Paid Time Off

Copado appreciates how hard employees work and recognizes the importance of providing time for rest and relaxation. Copado fully encourages employees to get this rest by taking paid time off.

Full-time US employees are entitled to 23 vacation days each calendar year. Copado will provide paid sick leave in accordance with local laws. Note that paid time off is accrued based on a calendar year from January 1 through December 31. You will be eligible to take paid time off after you successfully complete your 90 day introductory period.

The maximum paid time off entitlement for part-time employees is prorated based on hours worked.

Accrued PTO does roll over from year to year and employees may accrue up to a 200 hour cap. Once the cap is reached, PTO accrual stops until the balance falls below 200 hours.

If you wish to use three (3) or more full days of paid time off consecutively, you must submit a request to your manager at least one (1) month in advance of the requested time off.

Similar notice should be provided for planned time off of shorter duration. Every effort will be made to grant requests, consistent with operating schedules. However, if too many people request the same period of time off, Copado reserves the right to choose who may take time off during that period. Individuals with the longest length of service generally will be given preference.

If you will be off work due to illness or due to any other emergency for which notice could not be provided, you must call in according to the absence policy described in this handbook

Unused paid time off is paid out upon termination of employment unless otherwise required by law.

Vaccines

Copado believes we all have a social obligation to do what we can to stop the spread of the global viruses and other health threats to the world population. One of the best ways for us to do that is to encourage and ensure all of our employees have the ability to receive any vaccine prescribed by governing agencies such as the CDC and/or the World Health Organization. In the event this should occur and in countries where there is a charge Copado will provide employees and their immediate family members with reimbursement for the direct cost of the vaccines. In addition, Copado will provide employees with reasonable time off in order to obtain the vaccine for themselves. Contact People Operations for the current policy should one be necessary.

Working at Copado

Appearance and Dress

An employee's choice of presentation that could be construed by a reasonable person as being distracting or disruptive is not appropriate for Copado whether it be in the office, a customer's location or visible through electronic meeting video. Should there be a dispute regarding appropriateness, Copado will be the sole determinant regarding whether a person's appearance meets this test. Should it be determined that an employee's appearance is distracting or disruptive, that employee will be given an opportunity to correct his/her appearance to conform to expectations. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action up to and including discharge.

Smoking, including e-smoking

In locations where Copado provides office space, we abide by state laws and regulations regarding the use of tobacco products, including electronic nicotine delivery systems. Use of these products is not allowed in any office or enclosed space and can only be used during regular break or lunch times. Whether working remotely or in an office, excessive time away from your work space to use tobacco products is not allowed.

Accountability

In an organization as fast paced as Copado, work rules are necessary to maintain successful operations. We carefully selected you to join our team because we believe you possess both the character and competence to help Copado grow our business. However, we also recognize that on rare occasions, employees don't behave in a manner that is consistent with Copado's expectations and values.

Our accountability policy is designed to allow you to perform your job in a manner that best suits your style but also objectively holds you accountable to your performance and behavior as well as providing you with feedback regarding unacceptable performance or behavior. It also allows for an honest discussion about correcting this performance/behavior and clearly identifies consequences for both compliance and non-compliance to the corrective action.

Copado accountability is viewed as progressive and corrective, not punitive. It is also designed so that the action taken is aligned with the offense committed. Our accountability program is also designed so that, as repeated violations occur, accountability becomes more severe. As a result, any given occurrence could result in any manner of accountability ranging from a verbal warning to immediate discharge.

We recognize and apply four forms of accountability:

1. Verbal counseling
2. Written counseling – performance improvement plan
3. Suspension (generally unpaid)
4. Discharge

Each Copado leader is charged with the responsibility for administering the accountability policy within his or her department. Employees who are within the first 90 days of employment do not fall under the guidelines of progressive discipline and violations and patterns of unacceptable behavior are considered on a case-by-case basis.

In keeping with the intent of the policy, employees are given more latitude for correction and continued employment for minor violations then they are for intermediate or major violations. Each case will be handled on a case by case basis.

It would be impossible to list all the acts, omissions, and attitudes that may result in accountability. There are far too many variations, special applications, and situations. We have, however, listed some basic violations as examples of misconduct.

- Absence of two (2) consecutive work days without proper notification, authorization and approval by management. In this event, you will be considered to have voluntarily resigned from your position without notice and will be marked ineligible for rehire.
- Dishonesty/Falsification of any Copado records.
- Violation of Copado's Code of Conduct

Accountability Appeal

If you have received accountability from your manager and don't agree with the situation or the consequence, the first step you should take is to discuss it frankly and openly with your manager. Often managers or directors will be able to solve the concern and be able to explain why a particular action was necessary.

As an alternative, you are invited to discuss your issues with People Operations.

You are able to openly pursue a concern and doing so will not be used against you in any way. Copado understands that unsettled small problems have a way of growing into bigger, more serious problems. Therefore it is in both yours and our interest that a fair solution to the problem be sought.

In order to maintain orderly and efficient business operations, some management decisions, such as performance appraisals, job selection, salary adjustments, office accommodations, etc., are not subject to an appeal process.

People Operations will facilitate the process of any accountability action review. The decision that is delivered as a result of this process is final.

Outside employment

The high standards of quality expected at Copado are only possible when each employee gives his or her best work performance every day. We feel this level of performance is difficult to maintain when an employee is working more than one job. If you work more than one job, and we determine that your work performance is, or appears to be, affected by the other job(s), you will be asked to make a choice and discontinue one job within a time frame that we set.

If you have more than one job, you shall not use your Copado role to support or draw business for the other. No employee shall use his/her influence as a Copado employee to encourage business in his/her second job or for any other method of personal gain.

Workers' compensation

If you are injured on the job, Workers' Compensation insurance provides protection from loss of income and medical expenses. Workers' Compensation is a state-run program, so the rules and processes change depending on the state in which you live. Please refer to the State Addendum associated with this handbook (available on the Copado People Community) to learn the process for filing a Workers' Compensation claim in your state.

References and verification of employment

Should you need verification of employment for a personal reason (apply for a mortgage, loan, etc), submit the form to People Operations for completion. References and verifications of employment for other employment should always be referred to People Operations. When Copado receives a reference request, we generally release dates of employment and position held.

General Handbook Acknowledgment

This Employee Handbook is an important document intended to help employees become acquainted with Copado. This document is intended to provide guidelines and general descriptions only; it is not the final word in all cases. Individual circumstances may call for individual attention.

Because Copado's operations may change, the contents of this Handbook may be changed at any time with or without notice, in an individual case or generally, and at the sole discretion of senior management.

Please read the following statements and sign below to indicate your receipt and acknowledgment of this Handbook.

1. I have received and read a copy of Copado's Employee Handbook.
2. I understand that the policies, rules and benefits described in it are subject to change at the sole discretion of the Company at any time.
3. I understand that my employment is terminable at will, either by myself or the Company, with or without cause or notice, regardless of the length of my employment or the granting of benefits of any kind.
4. I understand that no representative of Copado other than the CEO may alter "at will" status and any such modification must be in a signed writing.
5. I understand that my signature below indicates that I have read and understand the above statements and that I have received a copy of the Company's Employee Handbook.
